

Black Lives Matter Update

November 27, 2020

The Board of APALA continues to discuss how our association can best support the Black Lives Matter movement, in coordination with the CSLA and other component associations across Canada. As previously stated, APALA and its members condemn discrimination and ALL ACTS OF RACISM.

The CSLA is actively working on an action plan for this movement and is in the process of hiring a consultant who can provide solid guidance through this. The APALA Board recently agreed unanimously to provide $1,500 toward consultant fees in order to move this initiative forward.

We look forward to updating our members accordingly.

APALA's Statement on Black Lives Matter

As an important part of our society, APALA and its members condemn discrimination and ALL ACTS OF RACISM.

Our eyes have been opened to the senseless and horrendous acts of violence and continued oppression of black people and other minority groups. Our silence is not to be construed as inaction against racism, we are taking the time to listen, learn and discuss meaningful ways to offer change, which starts within our own organization.

We acknowledge that we as a profession have been part of the problem and we acknowledge that we as a profession should be part of a solution. We recognize that we as professionals and citizens have the responsibility to do the work that contributes to the transformation of our society into a safe and diverse environment for all.

We are actively working on further actions and will share a plan over the coming months. We are open to learn more about the needs of marginalized and oppressed groups in Atlantic Canada and invite any interested person to get in contact with us at info@apala.ca in order to create a meaningful path forward, together as one.
